"WARTIME LABOUR RELATIONS REGULATIONS ACT."

REGULATIONS made by the Minister of Labour for British Columbia, pursuant to the Wartime Labour Relations Regulations, P.C. 1003 of the Dominion, and the "Wartime Labour Relations Regulations Act" of the Province of British Columbia, being chapter 18 of the Statutes of 1944:—

REGULATION No. 4.

Whereas pursuant to the provisions of the Wartime Labour Relations Regulations, P.C. 1003 of the Dominion, and the "Wartime Labour Relations Regulations Act," being chapter 18 of the Statutes of the Province of British Columbia, 1944, certain persons have been elected or appointed bargaining representatives:

And whereas in some instances, for various reasons, it is the desire of the employees or trade-unions involved that the number of bargaining representatives previously elected or appointed, and certified by the Hon. Minister of Labour for British Columbia, be either increased or diminished:

Now, therefore, pursuant to section 7 of the Agreement entered into between the Dominion of Canada and the Province of British Columbia on the 18th day of April, 1944, the following regulations are hereby made, namely:—

"Should any employees' organization or trade-union, which has been certified under the provisions of the Wartime Labour Relations Regulations in British Columbia, desire to increase or to reduce the number of bargaining representatives previously certified, it may do so upon requisite application to, and approval by, the Hon. Minister of Labour for British Columbia.

"Where the majority of the employees affected are not members of a trade-union, proof shall be submitted that it is the desire of the majority of the employees affected that additional bargaining representatives be named, or that certain of those previously certified no longer have authority so to act, and that a motion setting forth the desire of the majority of the employees was passed at a meeting which had been properly called and at which the majority of the employees affected voted.

"Where the majority of the employees affected are members of one trade-union, proof shall be submitted that it is the desire of the trade-union that additional bargaining representatives be named, or that certain of those previously certified no longer have authority so to act, and that a motion setting forth the desire of the trade-union was passed at a regularly called meeting of the trade-union affected."
